The traditional custodians of the Warialda and Delungra areas are the Weraeraai. Made up of two language groups, the Yularoi and Wolroi. The Cranky Rock area was sacred to the Weraeraai aboriginal language group and was a sanctuary for women and children when they fought battles with the Kamilaroi.

Crooble, Croppa Creek and North Star are all part of the Golden Triangle. The area earned the name because it is blessed by a temperate climate and abundant water supply both from inland rivers and the Great Artesian Basin, the rich black soil plains of Moree, Tamworth and Gunnedah in northern NSW stretching up to the Queensland border are so fertile, the locals say, 'they could grow babies'.

The railway commenced in North Star on 20/6/1932 with the opening of the line to Boggabilla. In the 1980s, with the closure of all traffic except grain, the line was cut back to North Star which has the last silo on the line. The proposed Inland Railway (Melbourne to Brisbane via Toowoomba) could see the line reopened.

The railway line opened at Kelly's Gully 25/11/1901. The area became known as Warialda Rail and later was officially named Burgaria in 1959. The name remained until the closure of the Rail line in December 1971 and now continues under an assortment of names including the original 'Kelly's Gully and Warialda Rail.'

Bingera is Aboriginal for 'shallow river crossing'. The township developed rapidly after the discovery of copper and diamonds in the 1880's. In 1890 Bingera became a municipality and the spelling changed to Bingara.

The Horton River flows eastwards from Mt Kaputar then north to join the Gwydir which then flows west to the Barwon-Darling-Murray system finally discharging at the Coorong in South Australia. In this respect the Horton is unusual because it begins with an eastward flow.

Gravesend grew from a fettler's camp established on Gravesend Station the coming of the railway around 1900. In the 1930s, Gravesend was the site of a research station breeding Cactoblastis moths later released to eradicate a devastating prickly pear infestations. The old railway bridge across the Gwydir River was transported from England. According to Railway Archives Gravesend means 'at the end of the groove'.

In the 1930s there was very little to be found in Croppa Creek village other than the railway siding, JA McGregor store and some workman's huts. In the early 1940s half acre blocks were surveyed by the Yallaroi Shire and auctioned off and is now a lovely community with good facilities.
